SPOTLIGHT: Defending Immigrants' Right to Health Care

Phoenix is home to a large population of undocumented immigrants. This community faces significant barriers to accessing health care, and were subjected to a two-decades-long campaign of prosecution and deportation by former Maricopa County Sheriff Joe Arpaio. Organizations like Phoenix Allies for Community Health led grassroots efforts to coordinate volunteer medical providers to offer health care to undocumented people. In 2016, activists successfully organized to defeat Arpaio in his sixth reelection campaign. Arpaio was ultimately convicted of criminal contempt, but was later pardoned.
