SPOTLIGHT: Promoting Healthy Nail Salons

In partnership with the California Healthy Nail Salon Collaborative, Santa Clara County launched the Healthy Nail Salon Recognition Program in 2015, a free and voluntary program for its more than 1,000 nail salons. Nail salons agree to use safer products that do not contain the “toxic trio” of chemicals that are often found in many brands of nail polish and are linked to reproductive health issues. Salons are also eligible for a rebate if they purchase a ventilation unit. Because the majority of Santa Clara’s manicurists are Vietnamese-American, the program includes Vietnamese-speaking advocates who work with salons to better understand their business needs and create a sustainable and healthy work environment.
